For the final paper, students write a 2000-word (8pp) essay that compares and contrasts the political ideas and movement strategies of two influential figures (proponents) in the Civil Right era as relates to three thematic areas: 1) class divide in black communities, (2) a feasible path to black liberation, and (3) the role of white allies. A successful paper makes clear arguments, is supported by in-class lectures/discussions, assigned readings, or recent/historical events, and uses at least five outside sources cited in MLA style. Preferred formatting guidelines should be followed. Overall, the paper showcases each student's knowledge and understanding of key debates in Black Studies.
